

July 2, 2009 - Amphion CEO Sees Key Unit Beating FY Target

LONDON, July 2, 2009 (Reuters)- Amphion Innovations' <AMP.L> DataTern unit is set to beat its full-year target, its Chief Executive Richard Morgan believes.

"Our target for this year, which is the analyst estimates, was $6 million gross revenue, I think we're going to go better than that for the year," Morgan told Reuters in a telephone interview conducted late on Wednesday.

In June Morgan said in a statement that the unit had surpassed its plan for the half year after signing four license agreements. [ID: nRnsY4577U]

Amphion's DataTern unit makes its money by finding companies that are using its database technology and signing licensing deals with them.

"We're alerting people to the fact that they've been using our technology and they need to license it and we've been successful in persuading them that it's the case," said Morgan.
