

Chevron Corporation

20:47 02 May 2014

Chevron edges lower as Q1 revenue, profit miss on lower production

Chevron Corp. (NYSE:CVX), the world's third-largest oil company, inched down in midday trading after missing first-quarter revenue and earnings estimates.

The shares were down 0.1 percent to $124.77 at 3:22 p.m. in New York.

The company also announced an increase in the quarterly dividend of 7 percent to $1.07 per share.

Net income dropped 27 percent to $4.5 billion, or $2.38 per share, in the three months ended March 31, from $6.2 billion, or $3.18 per share, in the year-earlier period, the San Ramon, California-based said in a statement today.

Analysts on average had predicted earnings of $2.51 per share.

Revenue declined 6.2 percent to $49.03 billion, missing consensus estimates of $53 billion.

The decrease was primarily due to lower crude oil realizations, whose negative effect was slightly curbed by higher natural gas price realizations. The company has missed revenue estimates for nine consecutive quarters now.

"Our first quarter earnings were down from a year ago," Chief Executive Officer John Watson said in the statement, "primarily due to lower prices and volumes for crude oil. Crude prices were tempered by global economic factors, while our current year production volumes were affected by weather-related, unplanned downtime, particularly in Kazakhstan.

Chevron and other major oil companies are struggling to maintain production as they drain oil and gas from their fields around the world. At the same time, the cost of exploring new fields is rising as they have to venture into more extreme and remote conditions to access hydrocarbons.

Profits are getting squeezed as these costs rise, because average oil prices have been roughly flat for about three years.

In the first quarter of this year, Chevron's oil and gas production fell 2 percent worldwide. In the U.S., production fell 4 percent as higher production of oil and gas in New Mexico and western Pennsylvania were more than offset by normal field declines elsewhere.

Overseas, where Chevron produces the vast majority of its oil and gas, production fell 2 percent. Increased production from projects on Nigeria and Angola was offset by field declines and weather-related shut-downs in Kazakhstan.

The average price Chevron fetched for its crude oil fell 3 percent both in the U.S. and abroad as oil prices around the world slipped slightly.

Price: $123.66

Market Cap: $234.76 billion

1 Year Share Price Graph

September 2018 March 2019 September 2019

Share Information

Code: CVX

Listing: NYSE

52 week	High	Low
	127.6	100.22

Sector: Oil & Gas

Website: www.chevron.com

Company Synopsis:

Chevron is one of the world's largest upstream and downstream oil and gas companies with operations across the globe. The company also has interests in rare earth minerals, coal, chemicals and power.

action@proactiveinvestors.com

Brent crude futures, the benchmark for more than half the world's oil, declined by 4.2 percent to an average of $107.92 a barrel during the quarter, according to Bloomberg. U.S. gas prices climbed 35 percent to average $4.712 per million British thermal units during that period.

Proactive Investors facilitate the largest global investor network across 4 continents in 4 languages. With a team of analysts, journalists & professional investors Proactive produce independent coverage on 1000's of companies across every sector for private investors, private client brokers, fund managers and international investor communities.

Contact us +44 (0)207 989 0813 action@proactiveinvestors.com

No investment advice

The Company is a publisher. You understand and agree that no content published on the Site constitutes a recommendation that any particular security, portfolio of securities, transaction, or investment strategy is suitable or advisable for any specific person. You understand that the Content on the Site is provided for information purposes only, and none of the information contained on the Site constitutes an offer, solicitation or recommendation to buy or sell a security. You understand that the Company receives either monetary or securities compensation for our services. We stand to benefit from any volume which any Content on the Site may generate.

You further understand that none of the information providers or their affiliates will advise you personally concerning the nature, potential, advisability, value, suitability or profitability of any particular security, portfolio of securities, transaction, investment, investment strategy, or other matter.

You understand that the Site may contain opinions from time to time with regard to securities mentioned in other products, including Company-related products, and that those opinions may be different from those obtained by using another product related to the Company. You understand and agree that contributors may write about securities in which they or their firms have a position, and that they may trade such securities for their own account. In cases where the position is held at the time of publication and such position is known to the Company, appropriate disclosure is made. However, you understand and agree that at the time of any transaction that you make, one or more contributors may have a position in the securities written about. You understand that price and other data is supplied by sources believed to be reliable, that the calculations herein are made using such data, and that neither such data nor such calculations are guaranteed by these sources, the Company, the information providers or any other person or entity, and may not be complete or accurate.

From time to time, reference may be made in our marketing materials to prior articles and opinions we have published. These references may be selective, may reference only a portion of an article or recommendation, and are likely not to be current. As markets change continuously, previously published information and data may not be current and should not be relied upon.

The Site does not, and is not intended to, provide investment, tax, accounting, legal or insurance advice, and is not and should not be construed as providing any of the foregoing. You should consult an attorney or other relevant professional regarding your specific legal, tax, investment or other needs as tailored to your specific situation.