Acacia Mining employee detained at Tanzania airport over dispute on export royalties

Acacia Mining PLC's (LON:ACA) ongoing dispute with the Tanzanian government has deepened after a senior employee was arrested at the airport and prevented from leaving.

The employee's passport was seized and he was detained at the Dar-es-Salaam airport for a "period of time", the miner said. He was released after legal intervention and his passport has been returned.

Government agencies have been adding pressure on Acacia's staff in the past two days on allegations the mining company owes Tanzania royalties on undeclared exports of gold and copper concentrates from its Bulyanhulu and Buzwagi mines.

On Tuesday, Acacia said the Tanzania government had slapped it with a US$190bn bill for unpaid taxes and penalties.

READ: Acacia Mining slumps after being hit with US$190bn tax bill in Tanzania

Acacia owes the government US$154bn for Bulyanhulu and US$36bn for Buzwagi.

The miner has been banned from exporting gold and copper concentrates from Tanzania as talks continue.

Acacia has repeatedly denied claims that it undeclared export revenues.

"Acacia re-iterates that it operates in full compliance with Tanzanian law, has declared everything of commercial value that we have produced and has paid all appropriate royalties and taxes," the group said in a statement today.

"The company will keep the market regularly informed as to developments as they occur in Tanzania when they are of a sufficient materiality in the context of what has already been disclosed."

Shares in the company fell 3.31% to 172.60p in afternoon trading.
You further understand that none of the information providers or their affiliates will advise you personally concerning the nature, potential, advisability, value, suitability or profitability of any particular security, portfolio of securities, transaction, investment, investment strategy, or other matter. You understand that the Site may contain opinions from time to time with regard to securities mentioned in other products, including Company-related products, and that those opinions may be different from those obtained by using another product related to the Company. You understand and agree that contributors may write about securities in which they or their firms have a position, and that they may trade such securities for their own account. In cases where the position is held at the time of publication and such position is known to the Company, appropriate disclosure is made. However, you understand and agree that at the time of any transaction that you make, one or more contributors may have a position in the securities written about. You understand that price and other data is supplied by sources believed to be reliable, that the calculations herein are made using such data, and that neither such data nor such calculations are guaranteed by these sources, the Company, the information providers or any other person or entity, and may not be complete or accurate. From time to time, reference may be made in our marketing materials to prior articles and opinions we have published. These references may be selective, may reference only a portion of an article or recommendation, and are likely not to be current. As markets change continuously, previously published information and data may not be current and should not be relied upon.

The Site does not, and is not intended to, provide investment, tax, accounting, legal or insurance advice, and is not and should not be construed as providing any of the foregoing. You should consult an attorney or other relevant professional regarding your specific legal, tax, investment or other needs as tailored to your specific situation.