Capita picks talent management platform operator Adepto as a partner

Controversial outsourcing company Capita PLC (LON:CPI) has become a "scaling partner" to Adepto, a technology company with a platform focused on talent management.

Capita will provide business development services to support Adepto's continued global expansion. Capita will also adopt Adepto's cloud-based platform to help manage its own workforce and deploy it as a client solution via its People Solutions business to help clients better manage all the talent available to them.

"As part of our strategy to simplify and strengthen Capita, we are developing and partnering with leading digital platforms that are competitive and scalable, and help our clients overcome complex challenges," explained Jon Lewis, the chief executive officer of Capita.

"After a detailed assessment, our partnership with Adepto provides us with the best talent pool platform to deliver industry-leading technology to our clients in our People Solutions division. We will also be using the platform internally to support our organisational development by attracting, retaining and developing talent," Lewis added.

We would like to thank @socialworkaward for nominating us for the social work values award! However as Capita are sponsoring the event we are forced to withdraw our participation. You can read why below. Thanks for the ongoing support! #noborders <https://t.co/3QH0BG9esl>
