Rosslyn Data's Bullen says firm to get to cash flow break even by year's end

Rosslyn Data Technologies PLC (LON:RDT) chief finance and operating officer Roger Bullen anticipates that the data and cloud technology specialist will "get to cash flow even by the end of this calendar year".

This comes after Rosslyn announced a 40% growth year-on-year, and Bullen believes that the company's ability to not only add new clients, but to retain existing ones, has been key to Rosslyn's strong economic outlook.

Bullen also reveals that the company has a new HR analytics app coming out at the end of May which he says "is going to be disruptive to the analytics environment".
