Tlou Energy considers RFP 'all but approved' and now ready to go in Botswana

Tony Gilby, managing director of Tlou Energy Limited (LON:TLOU), tells Proactive London he considers the RFP for a coal bed methane based pilot power plant in Botswana to be 'done and dusted'.

"It's a culmination of a many year process and the announcement in last week's newspaper clearly said the third and final stage of the process has been approved".

"For all intents and purposes the RFP process has come to a head with a positive result".

"We've got all the approvals in place and we're ready to produce power in the not-to-distant future", Gilby says.
