Cornwall Resources commence Redmoor West exploration program

Strategic Minerals (LON:SML) Peter Wale and James Blight from Cornwall Resources present the Redmoor west exploration program focussing on tin and copper to Proactive Investors.

Blight explains that the firm already had a large database from the historical work that took place at Redmoor in the 1970s and 80s, but that they've recently acquired a bit of a treasure trove of hard-copy reports and maps which they hadn't previously had access too.

They've since been working to digitise these, and to combine them with their existing data. He goes on to present an illustrated presentation of the compilation of their data, showing a fuller picture of prospectivity in the area than he says anyone has had before, identifying a number of targets for follow up.
